WORTHY OF PRAISE – VOLUME V

Culture the kids this summer (and maybe yourself too)...

Fireworks of Glass Chihuly at The Children's Museum Exhibit

The fireworks this summer aren't limited to the 4th of July! If you've never seen the awe-inspiring work of artist Dale Chihuly, it's time to hop in the car and head down to the Children's Museum. Our city now houses the largest permanent Chihuly sculpture in the world. Standing forty-three feet tall and 18,000 lbs, the installation features thousands of pieces of blown glass and took 14 days to assemble. Each individual piece is exquisite, and the sum of all 4,800 is breathtaking.

Located: The Children's Museum
3000 N. Meridian Street, Indianapolis
Dates: Permanent Display

Traders Point Creamery Friday Night Dinners & Farmer's Market

Where better to shop a farmer's market and enjoy a summer evening than in one of Indy's most beautiful, pastoral areas! Shop the local goods from local farmers, take a tour of the creamery and see the Brown Swiss cows (they produce six gallons of milk daily!). From May through October you can enjoy dinner on the deck each Friday evening. Kick back, relax, enjoy the view, and do NOT miss the award winning yogurt. Simply wonderful!

Located: Traders Point Creamery
9101 Moore Road, Zionsville
Dates: May – October (Fri. dinner 5-7pm & farmers market 4-7pm)

Butterflies at White River Gardens

Each year we look forward to taking the kids down to see the butterflies. The seventh season of this popular display began this spring and runs through September 5 at White River Gardens. The 65-foot tall, glass-enclosed Hilbert Conservatory is a perfect environment to find these beautiful winged creatures fluttering freely among visitors and flowers.

Located: White River Gardens (next to the zoo)
1200 W. Washington Street, Indianapolis
Dates: March 24 - September 5
