WORTHY OF PRAISE – VOLUME VI

Three Distinctions of Captured Image Photography that make them our photographer of choice...

They are more than photographers, they are ARTISTS

Stephanie and I were adamant that we wanted a true photographer to shoot our family portrait rather than just another employee of a "traditional" portrait studio. What we did not realize in our selection of Kurt and Laura Fehr, was that we were not just getting a "true photographer", but even more so, an artist. Their name is appropriate, because they captured our family exquisitely, and presented us with a selection of images that, each one, individually, is a work of art. Capturing just the right moment is a skill, but often overlooked is the talent that happens behind the scenes in the editing and cropping of those images, this is another area where the Kurt and Laura's artistry and creativity becomes evident.

They lend a listening ear in their CONSULTATION

How many photographers even DO an initial consultation??? I had specific ideas and thoughts of what I wanted to see happen with our shoot. We were able to freely express those ideas and concerns to Laura in our first meeting. She and Kurt were very open to incorporating our requests and made their own advanced recommendations for wardrobe selection and other details, hence truly customizing the photo shoot for our family and our desires.

They have an incredible RAPPORT WITH KIDS

Many of you know how hard it is to convince a five and a three year old to do ANYTHING in concert, much less sit and cooperate patiently through a photo shoot. This is a talent that is required when you only have a small window of time to keep a child's focused attention. Kurt's got that gift. Think of him as part-photographer and part-child psychologist. From the moment we entered the studio, he was able to engage the attention of our kids and keep it until he was finished. The images his talents rewarded us with are priceless.
